

ADVOCATES NEW SCHOOL IN WOODLEY PARK REGION

Connecticut Avenue Citizens' Association Makes Plans to Promote the Project.

Plans to forward the project of building a new school in the Woodley Park region were formed last night at a meeting of the Connecticut Avenue Citizens' Association, in conjunction with others living in the neighborhood, held in the grillroom of the Ardman Park Hotel.

The difficulty of caring for so many children throughout that district in the John Eaton School was emphasized by Levi David, who pointed out that that school was so overcrowded, with its 500 pupils, that each child received only a total of three and one-half hours of study a day, and that those attending from the Woodley Park section had to walk over the streets dangerous because of the many automobiles.

A made a motion, which was passed by the meeting, that a new school between the Connecticut Avenue bridge and 20th street be advocated, and a committee of twenty be appointed to wait on the board of education and the Commissioners to urge the project, and to go before Congress if necessary.

W. R. Westlake, president of the Federal Citizens' Association, expressed regret that so few people in the neighborhood had taken an interest in the situation. Full co-operation of all the citizens of that section was the only way to impress the Senate with the necessity of such a school, was his opinion.

FINANCE MEASURE SENT TO THE HOUSE

Farmers' Relief Resolution Passed the Senate Yesterday Afternoon.

The Senate Joint resolution directing the War Finance Corporation to make a measure of relief to the farmers in the marketing of their crops, and expressing the opinion that it would be desirable for the banks of the federal reserve system to extend further credits to the farmers, was sent to the House today. It passed the Senate last night without a record vote.

The second section of the resolution, which was originally presented would have directed the Federal Reserve Board to extend liberal credits to the farmers, was changed so as to make it merely an expression of opinion by Congress.

Senator Norris of Nebraska was the author of the amendment to the second section, which was adopted after considerable debate, in which the proposal to extend further credits was roundly denounced by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia read into the record figures to show that the credits now extended by the federal reserve system were vastly in excess of what they were a year ago, and that there was no curtailment of credits to the farmers as had been charged.

Senator McLean's Views. Senator McLean, chairman of the banking and currency committee, opposing section 2, also insisted that it meant nothing and an amendment of the federal reserve act would have to be made if it was to be of any effect.

"It reminds me," he said, "of what a first drink of grape juice. It looks good, it tastes good, but it doesn't accomplish anything."

The Norris amendment was adopted by a vote of 47 to 16. An amendment offered by Senator Smith of Maryland extended the operation of the War Finance Corporation to include the financing of products other than those of the farm.

Text of Amendment. The resolution as amended follows: "The Secretary of the Treasury and the members of the War Finance Corporation are hereby directed to revive the activities of the War Finance Corporation, and that said corporation be at once rehabilitated with the view of assisting in the financing of the exportation of agricultural and other products to foreign markets."

"It is the opinion of Congress that the Federal Reserve Board should extend liberal credits to the members of the federal reserve system to grant liberal extension of credit to the members of the agricultural products now held by them, by permitting the redemption of such notes of credit at a fair and reasonable rate of interest."

Telephone Book Made "EASY" FOR ITS USERS. If you have ever had to delve through numerous pages of the telephone book to find the number of a friend in Maryland or Virginia, when you did not know whether the call should go through Alexandria or Clarendon, you will appreciate the revised make-up of the new book just out.

Charles T. Claggett, division manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, said today the company is confident the public will find the new book much easier to use.

Instead of classifying the nearby Maryland and Virginia suburbs under the name of some town, such as Alexandria, all of these telephone areas have been alphabetically arranged under one heading, "Outside of Washington."

Another innovation in the new book is the placing of the name of the subscriber first, address next and telephone number at the end of the line. Mr. Claggett said a careful study has convinced the company that people will be able to find numbers much more quickly under this arrangement.

In order to keep the book from growing bulky as the number of subscribers increases, there are three columns of names instead of two on a page. Although the new book contains several thousand more listings, it is smaller and lighter than the old one.

The long list of printed directions for the information of subscribers, which have always appeared in the front of the book, have been "boiled down" to essential facts, and these have been printed in large type, so as to be more easily read.

MERRICK MEDAL AWARD MADE TO LEO J. CASEY

The Merrick medal for debate, one of the highest scholastic honors which Georgetown College confers upon a student, was awarded to Leo J. Casey, '21, president of the Philomathean Society, President John B. Creedon, '21, and John J. Hamilton.

The question under debate was "Resolved: That the Philippines Should Be Granted Independence Within One Year." The negative side, composed of Mr. Casey and D. Meredith Reid of Pennsylvania, was declared the winner in the debate.

Upholding the affirmative were Paul D. Page of Texas and Robert W. C. Wimsatt of the District of Columbia. The debate was held in Gaston Hall, and Paul Kitzel, vice president of the Philomathean Society, presided.

The law school will hold its first prize debate of the season tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The question will be the prohibition of Japanese immigration into the United States.

Members of the debating teams representing the Junior and Senior societies are announced as follows: Affirmative, George Renahan, '22, Maryland; Ralph L. Neary, '22, South Dakota; and Edward I. Marthljohn, '22, Texas. Negative, Bernard E. Shiesinger, '21, of the District of Columbia; Edward J. Daly, '21, Massachusetts, and Joseph Hurley, '21, Massachusetts, alternate.

CLUB TO CHOOSE OFFICERS. The annual election of officers of the Cornell Club of Washington will be held at the weekly luncheon Thursday at 12:30 o'clock at the University Club. All of the four hundred Cornellians in the District are regarded as members of the local alumni organization. As it is obviously impossible to take care of the full membership, without some preparation, reservations will be received by telephone at Main 1029 until noon Thursday.

SEE LOWER MILK PRICE. Observers Say Wholesale Cut January 1 Will Be Repeated.

The drop of 4 cents per gallon in the wholesale milk price in Washington on January 1 may be followed by another decline in February or March, in the opinion of persons familiar with prevailing conditions in the milk business.

The wholesale price on January 1 will go from 44 to 40 cents per gallon, which is expected to result in a reduction from 18 to 17 cents in the retail price per quart.

According to inspectors of the health department, milk is plentiful in Washington at the present time. They say this is due to the fact that the wholesale price per gallon in Baltimore is lower than in the District, which has caused some Maryland farmers who ordinarily ship to the Monumental city to divert their output to Washington.

Local dairymen believe that if the Baltimore wholesale price remains below that of Washington the farmers who ship to the National Capital will make another cut. Another reduction in the wholesale price would be reflected in the retail price per quart.

A spirited controversy is being carried on in the English press over the question, "Why are women so much more liable to quarrel than men?"

Women's rights as understood in this country, are practically unknown in Chile.

"Soul of America" Films to Be Shown at Masonic Temple.

Washingtonians will this week be given an opportunity to see themselves on the screen when the seven-reel feature "The Soul of America" is produced at the Masonic Temple, beginning today. This picture is evolved from the historical pageant given at the New Willard last winter under the auspices of the Navy League by the Charter Oak Film Company, under the personal direction of James M. Little.

Dr. David Jayne Hill will give a brief introductory speech on Americanization. Myron Whitney will render the national anthem.

The production of this pageant and the making of the film were participated in by several hundred society folk. More than 600 men, women and children took part in the spectacular exhibit, which was a reproduction of American life from its very beginning.

The pageant was arranged and produced under the direction of Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest, in co-operation with a committee of which Mrs. James Carroll Frazer was chairman and Mrs. Newton D. Baker vice chairman.

MORE SPACE IS DESIRED FOR MEDICAL EXHIBITS

Army Museum Building Hoped for in School Plan of Walter Reed.

During the past year the personnel of the Army Medical Museum in the Smithsonian Grounds has been engaged in preparing material collected during the world war and placing it on exhibition. Owing to the vast amount of such material it was necessary to enlarge the exhibition space. That was done by fitting up a museum building for the exhibition of pathological material and X-ray plates. There also is maintained at the museum a moving picture department, an anatomical art department, a still photographic department and a wax modeling department.

Surgeon General Ireland, from whose report to the War Department these statements are taken, says it is hoped in the near future to fill the entire floor space of the museum with material of interest to the medical profession as well as to the general public, including exhibits of medical and surgical equipment of the United States and foreign armies. He says the building is entirely inadequate to house both the museum and the library of the surgeon general's office and that plans have been made for a museum building to be included in the proposed Army Medical School on the grounds of the Walter Reed General Hospital near Brightwood.
